REPORT OF LIBRARY TRUSTEES

An increased supply of new books has been made available by the New Hampshire Public Library Commission in recent years, through the outright gift of from $15 to $20 worth of new books annually, and also through the use of the State Circulating Library which may be had merely by paying postage on each 25 volume packet of books in turn. Very intricate reports have to be filed with the State Commission, but the books sent our library are very carefully selected and more than worth the pains.

That a considerable portion of these titles have been for young people is because too little attention has been paid them in the past, in correction of which the librarian has put in much time this year, re-sorting the juvenile shelves to bring forward better books in better bindings. The shelf, with books suitable for book-reports for students in both the local schools and in high schools, has been maintained where the students can have easy and familiar access.

If there is sufficient interest, a home gardener's library can be obtained from the State.

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

To the members of the School Board, Goshen, N. H.

During another year of economic and political unrest, Goshen has been fortunate in being able to maintain its schools without educational loss. It has, I realize, been an effort to pay the taxes necessary to carry on; but your board, your teachers, and your superintendent have tried to give the citizens their money's worth.

In addition to the tests of which I have spoken in previous years, we have another yardstick by which to measure the value of the instruction which has been given. This fall we entered nine pupils in high school, and they have all done well. If these children had not been well prepared, their work in high school would have shown it.

If we had sent only a few of our brightest pupils, this record would have had no value, as the brightest would do well anyway. But with so large a number, the credit must belong to the elementary preparation.

We have both our schools being taught this year by new teachers. Miss Jessie Morganstern takes the place of Miss Forbes at Goshen Corner, and Miss Louise Farrand succeeds Miss Dent at Mill Village. In the long run, the frequent changes of teachers cannot be considered a benefit to your schools. We should try to arrange matters so that good teachers may be retained. Salary is one consideration. Good teachers are still scarce, and we should be prepared to pay enough to compete with other towns who want our good teachers.

But salary is not the only consideration. There is a matter in which all citizens can cooperate. Can we not make our community so attractive to teachers that they will not want to leave? This is not meant to insinuate that the community is now unattractive. Merely, is there not some way to make it more attractive, to weave a web around our teachers which they will not want to break?

If we can make our teaching force a little more permanent, with the teaching methods which are now in operation, and with a Board such as we now have with a real interest in good schools; there is no reason why your children should not continue to receive as good an education as those of any town or city in the State.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANK A. MORRIS,

Supt. of Schools
